MACARTHUR UNAVAILABLE

Gen. MacArthur's unequivocal withdrawal from the field of Republican presidential candidates leaves the race where it always was destined to be in the showdown—between Gov. Dewey of New York and Gov. Bricker of Ohio.

It is interesting—more than that, it is important—to note that when Gen. MacArthur made himself unavailable, he stood second in the Gallup poll. As holder of second place, he had inherited the position of Wendell Willkie in the poll.

Yet, in the case of both Mr. Willkie and Gen. MacArthur, they existed as presidential possibilities only in popular speculation—and Mr. Willkie learned in Wisconsin that popular speculation could be misleading as a guide to a political figure's vote-pulling power in a showdown.

George Gallup, himself, the director of American Institute of Public Opinion, has called attention to the deception of rating presidential candidates according to their standing in what really amounts to a publicity popularity contest. Referring to Gov. Dewey's lead in the same poll which placed Gen. MacArthur in second place, Director Gallup said:

"This does not, of course, mean that his nomination is assured, since candidates are selected by convention delegates, not by the rank and file. Gov. Dewey had a substantial lead at this time four years ago. Yet in the final pre-convention poll he was passed by Willkie, the eventual convention choice."

THE GENTLEMEN SHOULD YIELD

Senatorial interest in bargain tax rates for dependents in a revised income tax law may lead some legislators to wrong conclusions. Contrary to what seems to be a common impression, the birth rate cannot be affected substantially by increasing income tax allowances for dependents.

The senators should yield to the obvious fact that children are born and reared in ratio to existence of so many other circumstances that a difference of a few dollars one way or the other in tax allowances is insignificant. Parents are grateful when congress in its collective wisdom concedes that the cost of rearing children is an important consideration in levying taxes, but they can be only incredulous when congressmen talk as if the birth rate could be accelerated by the simple expedient of revising estimates of what constitutes a fair allowance for tax purposes. There is no price that can be set on the assumption of parental responsibility. The dictators have tried that in one form or another, sometimes going to the ridiculous extreme of trying to influence the birth rate with bonus payments for parenthood. But to assume that Americans can be persuaded to put a price on parenthood is to reveal complete lack of understanding of the diverse and complex factors which cause fluctuations in the American birth rate, the least of which is income tax allowances for dependent children.

THREE SIDES TO OPA

Criticism is the normal expectancy of price administration; the job cannot be done perfectly. Even if it could be done perfectly, moreover, the criticism would continue, because price control and the war boom are incompatible.

On the second anniversary of the temporary office established to stabilize prices, rents, to prevent speculation, profiteering and hoarding and to administer rationing, there is plenty of criticism. It is at a crescendo now, because congress is considering the question of extending the price control act, which expires on June 30.

There are three sides to OPA and the job it is doing—the way it is, the way it should be and the way it might have been. OPA is better than the way it might have been, not as good as it should be, but as it is still good enough to have earned a great deal of appreciation. In spite of great difficulties, it has kept prices under control on any reasonable basis of comparison. Certainly the price situation is better than it was in the last war, better than many Americans believed it would be at this stage in this war—and, objectively, better than it sometimes is admitted by its more energetic critics.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF RATIONING

The mechanics of food rationing, freshly illustrated in the revised table of point value juggling by OPA for the new period ending June 3, have some fascinating implications for consumers. Never were the ups and downs, ins and outs, longs and shorts and the butters and sweets of eating brought home with such methodical force.

We may eat sometimes more butter and less pork, or more pork and less beef, or favor veal over lamb, or give up spare ribs for loin, or choose flank over sirloin, or move at will in virtually any given direction as consumers, depending on a combination of statistics and policy at some remote point known as Washington, D. C.

There is no longer any novelty about it, but familiarity only increases interest and curiosity. There used to be that report, for instance, of the man who wouldn't consider a meal consisting of anything but thick steaks, lots of mashed potatoes, plenty of bread and all the butter he wanted for the potatoes and bread. Whenever the OPA comes forth with a new jungle, we wonder what became of him and how he and his wife are getting along these days as she confronts him with the realities of statistical eating.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, May 4

ACCORDING to the lunar transits of this day it may require some very definite shrewd and well-organized plans in order to break up some static or congested conditions, with stubborn obstacles, delays or postponements. Limitations, restrictions or other impediments may yield to cleverly manipulated ideas or strategies, executed tactfully but with vigor and determination, with no tolerance of questionable compromises or subterfuges. Keep alert to these.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which their individual shrewdness, stratagem and well-developed intuitions, ideas and ideals may be practically worked out and brought to bear upon tenacious obstacles, stubborn resistance or other restricting or limiting circumstances. Also refusal to be ensnared into dubious connections or suspicious alliances may brilliantly circumvent adverse conditions or impediments. Thrift also helps.

A child born on this day may have some profound and serious ideals and inner urges, which its sound balance and practical energies may put into worthwhile execution. It may have peculiar talents or intuitions.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Although the source must remain anonymous, I can assure you there is none better in Washington for this: There isn't the remotest possibility of general relief soon from the gasoline and fuel oil rationing program.

It isn't any secret that the Army and Navy are building up tremendous reserves of vital fuel for the engines of war. If you know your Army and Navy in wartime, it's a natural conclusion that these reserves will continue to be greater than ever will be needed. Military forces can't operate on a narrow margin of reserves. They must have enough for any emergency, whether it's food, arms and ammunition, gasoline or men.

The only way to reach those goals is to over-buy and overdraft. To fail to meet minimum requirements on any front could be and probably would be fatal.

THAT'S why you hear stories that the military forces are dumping certain articles on the civilian market. In most instances, these are semi-perishables which can no longer be held in the reserve stocks. That's why you hear the storage tanks along the seaboard are filled to overflowing with gasoline and oil. That may very well be true.

It is true, though barely mentioned, that we haven't yet been able to build our oil tanker strength to the point where fuel can be moved as fast as we would like. Merely because reserves pile up at the ports or in nearby storage tanks doesn't mean that the day of plenty in gasoline and oil is approaching.

The greatest chance for relief now lies in wiping out the black market. Experts here estimated that 2,500,000 gallons of gasoline daily are being moved through black markets. If this could be stopped or materially reduced, it would mean relief for essential drivers. OPA has recognized the fact that many B-card holders don't get enough gasoline to do their essential driving. If any "extra" gas can be found, it will go to them first.

SOME progress has been made in curtailing the black marketeers, but not much. Steps are being taken to eliminate the counterfeiting of ration coupons. Enforcement authorities are working on black market rings all over the country. All this helps, but just as in Prohibition, no great strides can be made without the complete cooperation of the public.

I am assured that there is no plan whatever now for giving relief to holders of A-cards. However, the greatest latitude possible will be given them in using their small quotas as they see fit. There will be no ban on pleasure driving this summer as there was last, and if A-card holders wish to "save up" for a little recreational junket, they are welcome to do so.

Contact Dermatitis An Eyelid Trouble

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

sult much more readily than the skin of most of the rest of the body. It is probably the most responsive barometer to contact dermatitis.

But, you ask, how do the eyelids come in contact with anything that would cause contact dermatitis? Very simple, because of the human habit of touching and rubbing the eyes with the fingers. And the fingers get into everything.

Have you any idea how often you jab your fingers into your eyelids? Well, the other evening after my attention had been called to the frequently of contact dermatitis of the eyelids, I was asked to introduce a speaker at one of our town assemblies. When he got started speaking I sat on the platform facing the audience.

Rubbing Eyes

It was a darn dull speech and I did not have to listen to him, so, watching the audience, I got a paper and pencil and made a mark for every time I saw a member of the audience rub his or her eyes. I did this until my arm got tired and when I got home and counted the marks on my paper I found I had 732. There were about 250 persons in the audience so that made an average of nearly three touches per person during one half hour of the day.

This average does not take into account the morning and evening rub eye period—when you first get up in the morning and very properly give the old eyelids the once or twice over, and then again at night, the same thing just after turning off the light. I am not saying this is a bad thing, although touching the eyelids can get to be excessive and a bad habit. I am simply showing how the eyelids get into contact with anything the fingers do and the fingers get into contact with everything.

Caused By Nail Polish

My friend, Dr. A. A. Bennie, one of the four best dermatologists in the country tells me that the commonest stubborn form of contact dermatitis occurs in women and comes from nail polish.

The next commonest is no respecter of sexes and comes from sensitiveness to dog hairs. You don't put the dog up on your face necessarily, but you rub it or pat it and get hair or hair secretion on the fingers. This type can be proved by pulling a few hairs off the household pet and putting them on the eyelids when—phooey—in an hour or so the eyelids are ablaze.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER ONE

Syria Verne was white with rage. Where did that fussy photographer get the idea he could tell her off in front of other people? And threaten her! She'd show him.

The doorman of the Maison Restaurant raised his eyebrows as she rushed out and hailed a passing taxi. He blew his whistle belatedly, but she paid no attention. Her temper flared. She never should have made the engagement in the first place. She gave the driver the address of her apartment.

"Over my dead body—or yours!" There had a nerve grabbing her arm and saying things like that! The last month ought to have shown him it was all over. Just because she was kind enough to give him a date, he didn't have to pull that possessive stuff!

Sure he'd taken some swell pictures of her. Sure he'd got her plastered on the back of every magazine through that cigarette smut. But that was last year. He'd think she had to go on being grateful for ever?

The cab pulled up to her apartment building. She paid the driver and walked in.

The elevator boy said: "Good evening, Miss Verne. Nice night out, isn't it?" She was too preoccupied to answer. Why did people have to be so nosy? She made an effort to forget the evening's incident.

She had enough to worry about without being threatened by a mere photographer. A girl had a career to think about. What did Pierre have to do with getting the penthouse? Nothing! Would he have been thoughtful enough to send her to Europe? Never! Had he ever given her furs or diamonds? Would he ever have given her a present of a check for five thousand dollars? Could he have gotten her a contest in the movies? It was ridiculous! Where did Pierre get off acting as though he owned her just because he took her out to dinner? He was still in love with her, no doubt—but that was old stuff!

The elevator seemed to crawl up. A kaleidoscopic rush of thoughts raced through her mind. What a coincidence to run into Argus Steele this evening! Good old Argus! Maybe he could help her arrange the filthy mess. Why did he keep harping on Martinelli, though? She bit her lip and sighed. There was a pretty kettle of fish! Martinelli and Carstairs and Plagg and Sturges. Pierre Sturges could go jump in the lake, after tonight! The elevator door opened. She could hear the phone ringing inside.

"Good night, Miss Verne," said the elevator boy.

"Good night," she said, hurriedly searching her bag for the key.

"Brr—brr—brr—" rang the phone. Where the deuce was that key? She fished around amongst compact, lipstick, hairpins, handkerchiefs and loose change.

"Brr—brr—brr—" Suddenly she remembered the Leave Word Service. Why hadn't they answered the phone? What was she paying them for? Then she glanced hastily at her wrist watch and understood. It was just after midnight.

"Brr—brr—brr—" She finally found the key, inserted it in the lock, opened the door and switched on the light.

"Brr—brr—brr—" That would be Carstairs, she thought. He'd promised to call her at twelve. She half ran across the living room and reached for the telephone. If it was Pierre, she'd hang up! She lifted the phone from the cradle.

"Hello."

There was a sharp detonation. She felt the hot stab of a bullet in her chest. She tried to scream. Then everything went black. She sank to the floor. The receiver fell out of her hand and lay beside her still form.

Syria Verne no longer had a career to think about.

The evening before, Argus Steele was sipping a scotch and soda at the bar of the Penguin Club and waiting for Ellen Curtis to return from the ladies' room when he noticed a neat pair of ankles beneath the red velvet rope at the entrance way. This rope, theoretically intended to prevent overcrowding when the tables and bar stools were all occupied, actually served as a subtle social barrier to undesirable would-be patrons. Maitre Henri would apologize unctuously to drunks and unattached females, who were obviously neither debutantes nor models, and ask if they had made a reservation. From behind the velvet rope only a few bar tables could be seen, and the moment they were vacated Henri would apologize unctuously to drunks and unattached females, who were obviously neither debutantes nor models, and ask if they had made a reservation. From behind the velvet rope only a few bar tables could be seen, and the moment they were vacated Henri would apologize unctuously to drunks and unattached females, who were obviously neither debutantes nor models, and ask if they had made a reservation.

young man smiled down at her.

"Argus!" she exclaimed, holding out her arm on a level with her shoulder, palm downward. "Argus Steele! You old rascal!"

"I didn't recognize you when you first came in, Lucy," he said. "The form was familiar, but I couldn't quite place the face. Here, this calls for a drink!" The waiter approached and bowed attentively.

"Scotch with plain water for m'm'selle. Soda for me. How's that for a memory, Lucy?"

"Marvelous, darling—but for your information the name is now Syria—Syria Verne," she smiled and looked up at him through mascaraed lashes. He was still standing. "Sit down," she said. Argus slipped into the seat next to hers and helped her off with her silver fox jacket. He noticed the label inside and he could not escape observing that her contours were just as voluptuous as ever, as she turned from one side to the other to slip her arms out of the sleeves.

She had a characteristic way of inhaling and simultaneously throwing her shoulders back as she got in an dunt of her wraps, which emphasized her full figure. In the old days Argus had told her this gesture would be even more effective if she could only resist the temptation of glancing about to harvest the approving stares of masculine observers.

"No more Lucy Callahan?" he asked.

"No. Those days are buried. When a girl has a career to think about she must have a glamorous name."

"So you've become a career diplomat," said Argus. "I always did think you'd make a good Mata Hari. You're much better suited for it than for that tough singing routine you used to do for Dancer Martinelli in the old speakeasy days." She grimaced at the mention of Martinelli's name.

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 3.—The FBI search for $2,200 worth of bonds, part of the loot obtained in robbery at Burgettstown, Pa., last fall, led to Detroit today, after federal agents questioned Stanley Yonis, 27, of Steubenville, who was taken to Pittsburgh.

Yonis had been held under $5,000 bond here for Columbiana county grand jury investigation of a charge attempting to rob Max Loundy's tavern, April 24.

The bonds, stolen when a safe allegedly was removed from Burgettstown to Steubenville, were taken to Detroit for disposition, police said Yonis had told FBI agents.

Her food agrees with her. No gas, bloating or spitting up after eating. She is also free of headaches now, and bowels are regular, thanks to this Remarkable New Compound.

Russians Actually Like Formality At Social Gatherings

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 3—The Russians are surprised that people anywhere else should be surprised at the formality of Russian parties either here or abroad.

(Rep. Buffet, R. Neb.), in the course of an attack on Washington's lavish social activities in wartime, took occasion to single out a Russian embassy party, and said: "We always thought of the Russian Soviet as a government of and by the people, without high hats, evening clothes and other accessories of capitalistic society."

The viewpoint here is different. First of all, the Russian people would be slightly shocked if their leaders showed up at a party without their best party clothes or uniforms. They would feel let-down nationally.

They look at it this way: If you have got a dress suit and the occasion calls for a dress suit, then put it on. Why consign it to the moth just because there's a war on?

Russians Like Formality

Few foreigners realize that the Russians are among the world's most formal people. They can be, and are, hospitable, charming, gay, carefree or serious as the occasion demands, hardworking, emotional and sentimental—but always formal.

Unaware, Winston Churchill made a big mistake, for Moscow, by showing up at a Kremlin dinner in his "siren suit," which, to the amazed Russians, looked like overalls. That little incident will be long-remembered.

On the other hand, Secretary Hull's dark, formal suits made a good impression, unlike that at a recent Army day celebration when Ambassador Harriman went in an informal business suit. One Russian said to me then:

"I thought your ambassador was a millionaire. Can't he afford a dress suit in honor of Red army day?"

A Russian woman may work all day in a pair of boots and much-mended rough stockings, but she'll do everything possible to obtain a pair of silk or rayon for a formal occasion. She stands agast at reports that in Britain and America women appear stockinged in the evening. To them, that would be not only letting themselves down, but their hostesses as well.

As for Rep. Buffet, one Russian reacted with this: "When his army is doing what ours is doing, then and only then will he qualify as an authority on how to dress in war-time."

Quakers Are Impressive In Win Over Warren And Struthers

Salem Wins First In Ten Of 14 Events; Score More Than Total By Opponents

Gathering 10 firsts in the 14 event triangular meet with Warren and Struthers yesterday afternoon, Salem High's track aggregation chalked up their fourth straight victory, 80% to 38% for Warren and 22% for the Struthers. High School Quakers scored more points than the Struthers and Warren teams together. Salem's season total in four meets is about 297 points, while all the 15 opponents have scored some 329 points. In other words, Cope's team has tallied nearly half the points possible in four meets.

Charlie Dunlap, fast becoming the most outstanding trackster in this district, piled up 17½ points for the Quakers with his usual firsts in the high and broad jumps, the 220 yard dash, and a tie for second place in the 100. This pile of points brings Dunlap's total to 73 for just four meets, an average of 18½ points per meet.

Entriens Close Second
Flick Entriens, another Quaker ace, was close behind Dunlap's performance with 14 markers, gathered with firsts in the high hurdles, the low hurdles and a tie for first with Dick Baughman of Salem in the pole vault.

Walter Brian placed first in the discus throw with a toss of 113 feet 9½ inches, his best in competition this year. Julian took second and Stotz of Warren topped third.

Coach Howard Helman of Struthers was high in praise of the local squad and predicted a Salem win at the Canton races Saturday. Warren's Coach Beck said Cope's squad was the toughest he had seen this year and was impressed especially with the show given by Dunlap and Entriens.

The Quakers will be idle this week until the 15-team affair in Fawcett stadium Saturday, where they will test their skill against the district's best—a trial that Coach Fred Cope is hoping will give them a top billing among Northeastern Ohio track teams before the district meet here on May 20.

First Fish Shipment For Guilford Arrives

The first shipment of fish of the spring season from the fish hatcheries at Meander lake, were taken to Guilford lake and placed in the waters there yesterday. The fish were fully matured and the shipment will be followed by others until the waters of the lakes and streams of the county are stocked.

PHILLY'S SCHANZ HURLS ONE-HITTER

Triple With Bases Loaded In Ninth By Hurler Saves Game

BY JACK HAND
You don't have to be a good hitter to be a winning pitcher in the big leagues, but Rookie Charley Schanz of the Phillies today knows it helps.

Schanz was only one of five major league hurlers who helped his own cause with a timely base knock in yesterday's games that tightened the races in both circuits. The big right-hander whom the Phils drafted from San Diego is the shining example but Curt Davis of Brooklyn, Bill Dietrich of the White Sox, Johnny Niggeling of Washington and Hal Newhouse of Detroit have reasons to thank their own bats for adding something new to their win records.

Schanz might have lost a one-hitter if he hadn't been able to come up with a bases-loaded triple in the ninth to give the Phils a 5-2 verdict over the New York Giants. Up to then the Polo Grounds led on their one hit, Joe Medwick's homer after George Hausman had walked in the seventh.

Davis came on as a relief man with Brooklyn and Boston all tied up 6-6 in the 11th, blanked the Braves in the top half and then drove home Paul Waner with a single to break it up. Jim Tobin's no-hit streak was ended in the first inning and he gave way to a pinch runner after allowing seven hits in three innings in Brooklyn's 7-6 victory.

In Cleveland, Dietrich tossed a five-hitter in trimming the Indians, 3-2, but he had to start his own White Sox rally with a single in the 10th. He moved around on Leroy Schalk's single and romped home with the big run on Jimmy Webb's fly to center.

Newhouse chimed in with a double in Detroit's extra-base attack on St. Louis. Chuck Hestler, Eddie Mayo and Rudy York were the other sluggers in handling the Browns' first home loss 4-3.

Niggeling's lone hit in backing up his own four-blow effort against Boston for a 5-2 victory did not help in the scoring but he prolonged a sixth inning rally by working Pinky Woods for a walk and helped another with a neat sacrifice in the eighth.

Hitting honors went to George Sturges with his three bingles as the Yankees moved into undisputed possession of second place by downing the Athletics, 4-2, but Bill Zuber and Jim Turned combined to limit the Mackmen to five safeties. Outfielder Tuck Stainback broke his right leg stealing second base in the third inning to force another reshuffling of the New York outfield.

In the only other big league game, Pittsburgh ended the Cardinals' four-game win streak with a 3-1 verdict for Preacher Roe who retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but got credit for his second victory. Chicago and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

FOLLANSBEE DROPS POTTERS IN FINALE

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 3.—Nosing out Anchor Man Bob McGraw by one step in the mile relay—the final event—Follansbee's track team capped honors in a dual meet with East Liverpool yesterday 58 1-3 to 50 2-3.

Before the final race the score stood 50 2-3 for Liverpool to 50 1-3 for the visitors and everything was settled by the one step advantage in the last lap of the relay.

The meet was the second loss in two tries for the Potter outfit. They dropped a triangular meet with East Palestine and New Castle in Palestine last week.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, May 3.—One of those G. I. rumors that can't be confirmed says the Army is undertaking a general "crackdown" on athletes who have lingered overlong at various posts. That's as it should be, except in cases where an athlete might be doing more useful work than serving on the firing line.

SHORTS AN SHELLS

Latest football rumors: (1) Joe Maniaci, now coach at the Bainbridge, Md., Naval Training station, is in line for the post-war head coaching job at Fordham, which isn't having any football this year. (2) Princeton, which carried on through two war years, is about to drop the game. Maybe the Tigers don't know. Frank Leahy isn't bringing his team. Following the pro football meeting in Philadelphia, National League President Eimer Layden and Chicago Scribe Harry Sheer came down with dysentery and mine host Harry Thayer, the Eagles' business manager, is battling a severe case of pneumonia. Well, Curley Lambeau maintained: "What you need here is not brains but endurance."

A ROOKIE A DAY

Robert (Buck) Fausett, Reds' third baseman, from manager to rookie in one easy lesson. Buck piloted Little Rock to second place in the Southern association last year, didn't miss a game a third and hit 362. After a dozen years in organized ball he's getting his second chance in the majors. Turned down the first in 1935 because Connie Mack couldn't offer a salary to match his baseball pay at Galveston.

INDIANS AFTER WIN IN THIRD WITH SOX

Bourdeau Visits Illinois Draft Board for Army Exam Today

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, May 3.—Russ Peters will take over the shortstop post again today for the Cleveland Indians third game with the Chicago White Sox, while Manager Lou Bourdeau visits his Harvey, Ill., draft board for a pre-induction physical examination.

Jimmy Grant has been subbing for Peters at second base during the boy-managers' absence. If he continues to hit as well as he did in the first two of the four-game series, the Sox will have to hustle to win again.

Grant's home run and single yesterday weren't enough support for Al Smith's hurling, however, and the Chicagoans won 3 to 2 in the 10th inning. Jimmy scored both Cleveland runs. The other three Tribe hits were garnered by Pitchers Smith and Paul Calvert, and Third Baseman Ken Keltner.

Six of Chicago's eight hits were spaced nicely, two each in the three innings the Sox trailed runs—the first, seventh and 10th. Moundsman Bill Dietrich received credit for the fine hurling job, while Paul Calvert was charged with the loss. Jimmy Devlin, 21-year-old catcher who played for Wilkes-Barre last year, has been sent to Baltimore on option by the Indians. His departure leaves four receivers, including War Worker Warren (Buddy Rosar, who expects to play part time.

Johnson Is Appointed Cubs' Temporary Manager

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 3.—Roy "Hard Rock" Johnson, temporary successor to Jimmy Wilson as manager of the Chicago Cubs, today told Cub players that "action and hustle" would be keywords of his scheme.

Johnson, a veteran minor league pilot since 1928, used a brief but lively dressing room session to burn the ears of the Wrigley chatters.

"I want action!" Johnson thundered. "I want every ball player to get out and hustle like he's supposed to."

Class A. B Softball Play To Start Soon

If Old Man Weather is in a good enough frame of mind around May 15, the Salem Class A and B softball leagues will get underway, Joe Kelley said today. Kelley has called a meeting of all team managers for both leagues in the Memorial building at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Early indications point to two six or eight team leagues, Kelley said. The class B league will be comprised of mostly church teams and High school squads.

Discussion will be undertaken Monday on the rules for this year's sessions and final arrangements for team memberships.

Wilson Is Again Cincinnati Coach

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 3.—Jimmy Wilson rejoins his old teammates—and everyone is happy.

General Manager Warren Giles, of the Cincinnati Reds, announced last night he had signed the fiery ex-catcher as a coach for his team. Wilson resigned his post as manager of the Chicago Cubs Monday after the team lost nine games in a row. At that time he said he thought someone else would be able to do better with the team and added he broke relationship with the Cubs' management amicably.

Immediately upon learning of the resignation, Giles went to Chicago for a conference with Wilson—the result of which was announced last night.

Wilson was a major factor in the Reds winning two pennants and a world championship in 1939 and 1940. He was the hero of the 1940 World Series with Detroit.

Giles said Wilson will join the Reds in St. Louis Friday. No salary figures were disclosed.

18 Horses Expected To Run In Kentucky Derby On Saturday

LOUISVILLE, May 3.—Barring an accident or a trainer's prerogative to change his mind, the names of 18 three-year-old horses will be dropped into the entry box at Churchill Downs early Friday morning for the 70th running of the richest of all Kentucky derbies on the following day.

If all 18 should parade to the post around 4:45 p. m. (Central War time), the race will have a gross value of $87,700 with the winner taking down a check of $68,200, some $2,600 more than Shut Out earned in copping the 1942 renewal. Not since War Admiral showed the way over the mile and a quarter to 19 rivals in the 1937 turf classic have more than 15 horses faced the barrier. The lines were pretty well drawn for America's No. 1 horse race yesterday when Broadcloth, owned by Mrs. George Poulson of Los Angeles, took the measure of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Broad Grin and four others in the mile of the Derby trial.

Trainer John Gaver lost no time in announcing he would not send Broad Grin out as a running mate for the stable's highly regarded Sir up. However, W. C. Davis' Rockwood Bay, and J. V. Mazza's American Eagle, third and fourth respectively, were listed as sure entries.

Japs Lose 1,727 Coastal Ships In Month of April

(By Associated Press)
ADVANCED ALLIED HEAD-QUARTERS, New Guinea, May 3.—
Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in a special statement today claimed 1,727 Japanese coastal vessels, barges and schooners have been sunk and 3,548 damaged since April, 1942.

A review of the Allied anti-barge campaign said this destruction has had the effect of "paralyzing enemy efforts to supply, reinforce or evacuate the 17th and 18th (Japanese) armies cut off and surrounded in New Guinea, New Britain,
New Ireland and the Solomons."

The Japanese have been driven to the use of barges and other small craft by heavy losses of cargo ships and transports early in the war and by the proved inefficiency of submarines as supply agents.

The headquarters statement estimated that the 1,727 small boats destroyed could move a 50,000-man army. "Several thousand of their soldiers have been killed, drowned or wounded in these attacks."

"Such a vast amount of cargo has been sunk that thousands of trapped enemy troops already are on short rations and are faced with dwindling supplies of ammunition,
equipment and medical supplies,"
the statement said.

chief, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Florida
Sen. Pepper was making a strong fight to sidestep a run-off on May 23 which would be necessitated if he failed to win more than 50 per cent of the votes in the preferential. With 858 precincts counted out of 1496, the incumbent had 112-178 while the combined total of his four opponents was 104,212.

South Dakota
Sen. Gurney was renominated over Lieut. A. C. Miller by a vote of about four to three. Gurney polled 32,041 to Miller 23,488 with all but 65 of the state's 1963 precincts accounted for.

In South Dakota's Democratic primary all delegate candidates are fourth term supporters. With their eight votes, the are now 371 pledged or claimed for Mr. Roosevelt. It requires 589 to nominate.

Other results:
Arkansas
Selection of the state's Republican delegation of 12 was completed
but the convention turned down a proposal to instruct them for Dewey.

Florida
A group of Byrd-for-president supporters was making a bid to carry the state's banner to the Democratic national convention.
Fragmentary reports showed that seven delegates pledged to President Roosevelt and five pledged to Byrd were leading.

The state's 11 congressmen—nine Republicans and two Democrats—appeared assured of renomination
as incomplete primary results failed to disclose a strong competitor
for any incumbent.

CANAL PROJECT APPROVAL SEEN

Early Congressional Action Expected to Follow
low Senate Hearings

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Quick congressional approval of a Beaver-Mahoning canal as part of a $400-600,000 postwar rivers and harbors authorization was advocated today
by Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.) of the house rivers and harbors committee.

While Sen. Guffey (D-Pa.) and other Pennsylvanians prepared to oppose the program, Mansfield said in an interview that proponents had gained an advantage through support from Ohio's Senators Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati and Harold Burton of Cleveland, and Congressmen George Bender of Cleveland and Michael Kirwin of Youngstown.

These four testified for the project at the senate hearings—Burton as a member of the subcommittee. Only one Ohio congressman, J. Harry McGregor of West
Lafayette, spoke against it.

McGregor's appearance, however, indicated a division of sentiment among the Ohioans. Representative Ed Rowe of Akron informed the subcommittee he also opposed the plan, although he did not appear as a witness.

Large groups from Pennsylvania and Ohio appeared at two days of hearings on Burton's proposal to add the $38,000,000 canal to the house-approved rivers and harbors bill.

Ohio spokesmen said the waterway would benefit the whole Machoning valley by providing a water route to the Ohio river.

Chairman Overton (D-La.) said
the subcommittee would act on the proposal promptly.

The War Today

ence between the orthodox land offensive and the forthcoming invasion which involves land, air and water to an extent that in some respects is outside the experience of men. There will, for instance, probably be a use of paratroopers and other airborne forces on a scale
heretofore only a strategist's dream.
Indications are that a huge army will be dropped from the skies into areas behind the main enemy lines.

However, there will be nothing haphazard about it. Every body of paratroopers will be landed in a spot planned long in advance. Thus where there are upsets, the Allied command will be able to compensate just as in the case of the orthodox offensive. I dare say the invasion plans in Commander In Chief Eisenhower's hands run literally into volumes of detail.

There's one situation we onlookers must be prepared for. Many confusing things are likely to happen after the invasion starts—
things which only the Allied command can understand. Indeed, some of these mysteries will be deliberately perpetrated by our command to fool the enemy. At a time of great tension, events which aren't understandable are bound to cause worry, but in the forthcoming invasion there's no need to let them get us down in the mouth.

Methodists Outline 'Crusade for Christ'

(By Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, May 3.—A "Crusade for Christ," which calls for the raising of $25,000,000 and a world-wide program of evangelism and reconstruction, was adopted today by the general conference of the Methodist church.

After hearing Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, declare that "fine sentiment alone won't fill stomachs or win souls," the 762 delegates voted almost unanimously to accept the five-objective crusade, which was planned by the committee of 21, so called because it has 21 members.

The objectives:
(1) To establish an international organization for permanent peace.
(2) To rebuild church property,
and rehabilitate peoples, in war
areas.

(3) A church-wide evangelistic
campaign.
(4) Cultivation of Christian stewardship.
(5) To increase enrollment in Sunday schools and related organizations.

Blood-letting or cupping was used as early as 413 B.C. to treat disease.

SAYS OLDER DADS TO ESCAPE DRAFT

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Predicting that upwards of half a million men under 26 now holding occupational draft deferments will be inducted this year, Rep. Costello (D-Calif.) said today Selective Service should need "few, if any,
fathers over 26 this year."

Costello, chairman of a house military subcommittee on draft deferments, said 1,100,000 men under 26 are deferred because of employment on farms or in essential industry. In addition, he said, revised Selective Service figures show that on April 1 there were approximately 750,000 non-fathers in class 1-A,
available for induction.

"Their own figures show that Selective Service just won't need fathers over 26 this year unless there are some unexpected setbacks on the fighting fronts," Costello declared in an interview. The needs of the armed services during the rest of 1944, Costello said, are for 1-385,000 men, of whom 400,000 are needed to bring the Navy up to quota strength and the others to fill replacement needs of both Army and Navy.

draft situation for this year:

Men over 26: Few, if any, will be taken; most of those inducted from this group will be single men, who number 750,000 out of the total of 2,225,000 men of all ages in 1-A on April 1.
Men under 26 (regardless of marital status): Almost half of the 1-100,000 holding occupational and agricultural deferments will be inducted; this group, Costello said, is going to be hard hit, because the armed services need these younger men.

To meet this year's requirements of 1,385,000 men, Costello used these figures: 540,000 becoming 18 this year; 425,000 to 450,000 from the group under 26 now deferred because of occupation; 375,000 to 420-000 non-fathers now in 1-A.

island in the Eastern Carolines, 440 miles from Truk. Carrier planes also attacked the base.

Admiral Nimitz in yesterday's communiqué reported the warships shot down five Japanese search planes on April 25' during the retirement from the Hollandia area."
It previously had been announced
the task forces destroyed 101 planes in softening-up attacks prior to the Hollandia invasion which Mac-Arthur opened April 22.

Wake Island, enemy-held U. S. possession 1300 miles to the northeast, took its heaviest raid of the war when land-based heavy bombers poured 95 tons of explosives on Japanese installations Sunday.
There was no air interception.
